

Ethics

As a participant of our training program, Correlation One provides you access to learning materials (such as the case this document is packaged with).

You are permitted to use these materials as you learn data science and you are welcome to review them any time after your graduation.

However, these materials are intellectual property (IP) belonging to Correlation One. You CANNOT share or redistribute them without Correlation One's written consent. For example, if you wish to upload a case to GitHub, MAKE SURE the repository is PRIVATE – a public repository would be an illegal redistribution of Correlation One IP. If you would like to redistribute or share any of the provided learning materials, please contact resources@ds4a.com to request permission.